

Mon, Feb 14, 9:17 AM

The more we talk about the war measures act, the more people are going to talk about the war measures act. Even when we are saying "it is not" . The charter is a big word. We should use that. The act does not bypass the charter. Period. You can still do x y and z. And finally we should be strict in saying "Emergencies Act" or "Loi sur les mesures d'urgence". Nothing else.

Yep. Agreed. This is clearly on his mind this morning. Will talk to him after.

Personal Info.

